

Halgolla Plantation Home (HPH) is a Sri Lankan destination without equal. It offers you the opportunity to be guests of the owners in the ancestral home of a family that has lived here for three generations, over three centuries.

- We grow, harvest and process the main spices of Sri Lanka – cloves, nutmeg, pepper and vanilla – and guests are encouraged to observe the manner in which this is done
 - EVERY jam, jelly, chutney, preserve and fruit juice served at HPH comes off the organically-cultivated trees and vines in our garden. We have in excess of 40 varieties of fruit at last count and our citrus list alone covers everything from oranges, through grape fruit to Citrus hystrix (“Kaffir lime”) and Citron!
- The Sri Lankan cuisine at HPH has been rated as having no equal and comes off our open-hearth fireplace
 - The library of books – ancient and modern - about Sri Lanka its people and its flora and fauna defies a brief description
- Simply put, Halgolla Plantation Home, complete with conducted guest-walkabouts with the knowledgeable owners, use of its Soaking Pool and leisurely walks along its well-marked self-guided walking trails has to be experienced to be believed!
